

IN THE FOOTSTEPS OF JOHN PAUL II

I WILL SHOW YOU MY HOMELAND

Bieszczady Mountains is a part of Carpathian Mountain Range, situated at the extreme southeast part of Poland on a border with Slovakia and Ukraine and 90 km from Sanok. This is the wildest part of Poland with the highest peak Tarnica (1346 m)

John Paul II, our school's patron reportedly said that he would like to see two more places. Both in the Bieszczady Mountains. It is not known what places the Holy Father spoke about, but certainly among the many routes he traveled, the Bieszczady Mountains were especially dear and close to his heart. He visited here many times as a priest, as a bishop and as a cardinal.

He often rested here alone and with his friends. Sometimes he even came all the way from Masuria, even for a short time, to his beloved Bieszczady. In the mountains, he always felt close to God - at home.
