

Mosaic Galileo Chini

In a little cave among the complex of the Porretta's hot spring (Porretta is a town next to our school), you can find a masterpiece of Italian Liberty style: a mosaic of majolica tiles that represents Spring and the thermal water. It was made in 1900 by the artist Galileo Chini.

The children from the school Tiziano Terzani made a reproduction of part of the mosaic, using tiles made out of terracotta, and painting it with colors for ceramic. Later on the children created and portrayed a short movie about Porretta s hot spring where you can see the original piece of art.
